Biography

After graduating from high school in 1988, Laura Larkin was accepted into Texas A & M College Station. After one year of school, she had to drop out for the birth of her first child and never returned. Laura has since married and has had five additional children. Her first child knew that it was always Laura's dream to become a Texas A&M graduate, so she chose to attend A&M and become a Fightin' Texas Aggie.

Laura decided she wanted to earn a degree with her daughter. After researching SAC she found that she could earn a degree through online courses. Although she is juggling five additional children at home, a full time job, and Union duties, she accomplished what she set out to do in just under two years. Laura completed the last course for her degree in October making her eligible to receive an Associates of Arts. Thanks to San Antonio College, Laura was able to accomplish her goal of earning a degree.
