2. CEA Standards

All Commission decisions concerning accreditation are based on the CEA Standards for English Language Programs and Institutions (CEA Standards) in place at the time a representative from an eligible program or institution attends an accreditation workshop. The CEA Standards provide evaluative criteria to assess a program or institution. The program or institution must demonstrate how it is accomplishing its educational objectives while adhering to the CEA Standards.

The CEA Standards were developed, adopted, and promulgated in accordance with U.S. Department of Education requirements for recognized national accrediting agencies and reflect the professional judgment of a wide cross-section of the field of instruction of English to speakers of other languages.

2.1. The CEA Standards for English Language Programs and Institutions

The CEA Standards focus on the overall quality of an English language program or institution. A program or institution seeking accreditation must respond to each standard and document its compliance with the standard. During the review process, CEA reviewers make a judgment as to whether the program or institution appears to meet each standard. In making the accreditation decision, the Commission applies the standards as it reviews the self-study, the team report, and the response from the program or institution.

The CEA Standards, divided into 11 standard areas, are below. A longer document, CEA Standards for English Language Programs and Institutions, includes a context for each standard area and a discussion of each standard. CEA provides further instruction to applicants through self-study workshops and collateral materials.

The CEA Standards are available to the public on the CEA website. Earlier versions of the standards are available upon request from the CEA office.

- b. CEA undertakes a comprehensive review of the complete standards document, with context and discussion, at least once every 10 years.
- c. CEA conducts a number of activities to ensure the validity of the CEA Standards.
- d. In addition to the regular review cycle, periodically CEA will select certain standard areas or the standards as a whole for the purpose of review and revision. The selection will depend on information gathered from site reviews, including frequently unmet standards, surveys of sites and reviewers regarding the standards, clarity and reliability surveys, or other data sets deemed to be necessary.
- e. CEA will carry out additional procedures to assure the reliable application of the standards, including measures to determine on-site reviewer reliability in applying the standards through content delivered in reviewer training sessions and regular evaluation of reviewer training sessions.
