Dr. Aurelia Rocha | SAC Faculty Fellow

Greetings & Announcements!

Hello Again!

It's the last Faculty Fellow Newsletter of the semester and of the year! Thank you to everyone who has perused these pages. My hope was to create a curated list of professional and faculty development opportunities for you - and if you found even just one thing that piqued your interest, then my job was done.

I wish everyone a wonderful winter break filled with restful days, cozy evenings, friends and family, or solitude--if like me, that's what you prefer.

I look forward to the new year with you all!

Schedule a Chat with Me!

If you don't already know me, I am a teaching artist! My primary discipline is music, and my instrument is the cello. I've worked in faculty development since 2016 teaching prekindergarten educators how to incorporate performing arts techniques into the classroom. I am trained through the Wolf Trap Institute for Early Learning Through the Arts, and I have participated in the Artists as Educators Seminar, Mapping the Journey: Planning Effective Residencies for Students developed by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

I am also adjunct faculty at San Antonio College and teach cello, viola, and had the distinct pleasure of working with the SAC Chamber Ensemble before COVID required us to work online. I started my career with Alamo Colleges at St. Philip's assisting with INRW in the English department, and I have taught cello and music theory at Northwest Vista College.

So enough about me, I want to learn about you! Please stay in touch.
