

Jobs/Internship Searches

1. Handshake

- Why: Handshake is a job and internship platform specifically designed for college students and recent graduates. Many universities have partnerships with Handshake, and it provides students with access to exclusive internship and job opportunities.
- Where: Check if your university offers Handshake through its career services.

2. LinkedIn

- Why: LinkedIn is not only a professional networking platform but also a great resource for finding internships. It has a dedicated job and internship search feature, and students can directly apply through LinkedIn.
- Where: Use the "Jobs" tab, filter by "Internship," and set alerts for new opportunities.

3. Indeed

- Why: Indeed aggregates job and internship listings from various sources, making it a comprehensive platform. You can filter search results specifically for internships based on location, field, and other preferences.
- Where: Visit Indeed, then search for internships under the job category.

4. Glassdoor

- Why: Glassdoor provides job listings along with company reviews, which can be helpful for understanding the work culture of potential employers. Students can search for internships and read feedback from previous interns.
- Where: Go to Glassdoor and search for internships in your field of interest.

5. WayUp

- Why: WayUp specializes in internship and entry-level job opportunities for students and recent graduates. It allows users to filter by industry, location, and job type.
- Where: Visit WayUp to browse available internships.

6. Chegg Internships

- Why: Chegg provides an internship search platform that allows students to easily find opportunities, along with resources to help with the application process (resume tips, interview guides, etc.).
- Where: Check out Chegg Internships.

7. Idealist

- Why: Idealist focuses on nonprofit and social impact internships, making it a great option for students interested in working with mission-driven organizations.
- Where: Visit Idealist and search for internships in various fields.

8. College/University Career Centers

- Why: Many universities have career services that post internship opportunities specifically for their students. These can be found on school-specific job boards or internship portals.
- Where: Check your college's career center website or ask for internship resources directly from the department.

9. Company Websites

- Why: Many companies post internship opportunities directly on their careers page. If you have a specific company in mind, visit their website to look for open internships or sign up for job alerts.
- Where: Go to the "Careers" or "Jobs" section of the company's website.

10. Networking (Professors, Alumni, Events)

- Why: Sometimes the best internships come through networking. Attend career fairs, university networking events, or use alumni networks to find internship leads.
- Where: Attend on-campus career fairs or connect with professors and alumni through LinkedIn or university networking events.