San Antonio is ranked among the nation's highest-poverty cities, according to a new report from the National Low Income Housing Coalition.

Though local and national poverty rates are dipping, the percentage of San Antonio's population in poverty was the second highest among the top 25 largest U.S. metro areas in 2017, new data from the U.S. Census Bureau shows.

American Community Survey estimates released Thursday show a 14.5 percent poverty rate for the San Antonio metro area, which includes New Braunfels, placing it second after Detroit (14.6 percent).

Worlds apart

Concentrated poverty and an increasing income divide make San Antonio one of the country's most segregated cities.
